Sex workers take fight to top court

◐ Want public-interest standing to challenge Canadian Criminal Code's anti-prostitution provisions

Sex-worker supporters rallied outside the Supreme Court of Canada Thursday afternoon after a British Columbian group argued before the top court for the right to challenge Canada's prostitution laws.

After the hearing, lawyer Katrina Pacey joined her clients, the Downtown Eastside Sex Workers United Against Violence society (SWUAV) and Sheryl Kiselbach, a former sex worker, on the front steps of the court to speak to the media. SWUAV and Kiselbach want to be granted public-interest standing before advancing their case.

SWUAV and Kiselbach filed a constitutional challenge in 2007 against the communication law, as well the bawdy-house law and some aspects of the procuring law.

Prostitution is legal, but communicating for buying or selling sex, pimping and running a brothel are all illegal. The plaintiffs argue Canada's current laws put sex workers in dangerous situations and perpetuate the risks they face.

Pacey said Thursday was an emotional day and described it as a first step for sex workers getting their day in court.

"What this is about is access to justice … and (telling) the justice system about the charter violations they face every day," Pacey said.

"I'd love to be able to tell them they don't have to fear looking over their shoulder when they're working on the street, that they can take their time in assessing that john." SHERYL KISELBACH

Prostitutes of Ottawa/Gatineau Work Educate and Resist (POWER) vice-chair Chris Bruckert, who recently voiced concerns about violence against sex workers in Ottawa, said the general public is beginning to understand that the key issue of the this ongoing battle is violence against women.

"Most people will not support policies that will facilitate violence against women," said Bruckert.

A decision is expected from the court in the next few months.

Next week's Crown-First Nation Gathering in Ottawa must be followed with action on education, health care, housing, governance, local chiefs say

JESSICA SMITH
@METRONEWS.CA

JESSICA SMITH/METRO

▶ Kitigan Zibi chief Gilbert Whiteduck was at Ottawa City Hall Thursday for a meeting about arts in the capital.

Kitigan Zibi chief Gilbert Whiteduck knows what he doesn't want when aboriginal leaders meet with the federal government next week: a photo op where the Prime Minister says the gathering was an "important stepping stone," followed by silence.

Aboriginal leaders from across the country are meeting Prime Minister Stephen Harper and cabinet members Tuesday. The one-day Crown-First Nations Gathering was announced in early December, shortly after Attawapiskat First Nation declared a state of emergency over its housing crisis.

"It's no longer a time for stepping stones. It's time for action. It's time for something concrete that will make a difference," said Whiteduck.

He wants to see action on education, health care and housing for First Nations, but also "high-level" talks on governance issues and aboriginal rights that will be followed up on in more meetings.

Two political groups that represent Ontario First Nations are also calling for followup after the photo ops are over.

"This cannot simply be a photo op for the federal government or a continuation of the agenda to avoid recognition and implementation of the rights of First Nations," Chiefs of Ontario head Angus Toulouse announced Thursday. "The true value of the meeting will depend on what happens as a result."

The Union of Ontario Indians, representing 39 Anishinabek First Nations in Ontario, is also calling for "action, not photo ops," but said the meeting, if done right, could start the rebuilding of the Crown-First Nations relationship.

"The short time frame we have to meet with the Prime Minister on the 24th is not going to be sufficient time to not only hear all of our issues, but respond to them," said Grand Council Chief Patrick Madahbee. "We are pushing for an ongoing process over the next 12 to 18 months."

Those followup meetings should include the Assembly of First Nations and cabinet ministers and culminate in a First Ministers conference, which would include aboriginal leaders as well as the heads of the federal, provincial and territorial governments, Madahbee said.

No Bieber tweets for sick Ottawa woman

Justin Bieber didn't end up tweeting about organ-donation Thursday as Hélène Campbell had hoped, but she said she is still surprised at the support she got from everyone else who did.

Her friends unleashed a Twitter campaign to raise awareness about the importance of organ donation.

Twitter users posted messages with #BeAnOrganDonor and a link to beadonor.ca to sign up for organ donation.

"I'm just amazed at the outcome, that people took the initiative to do this," Campbell said from Toronto. "It was super encouraging to see people rally for a cause like that."

Campbell said messages were sent from people as far away as Spain and California. Mayor Jim Watson, the Ottawa 67s and Justin Beieber's guitarist Dan Kanter participated in the online campaign, too.

A few people said tweeted that they registered for organ donation.

Fast food — now without the annoying exercise of walking or hopping in the car to visit a drive-thru

STEVE COLLINS
OTTAWA@METRONEWS.CA

Whether you're too busy to leave your desk or it's too cold to leave your house, ordering in is an ever-ready solution, but how much pizza can you really eat?

Now a new Ottawa delivery service, Fast Food Delivered, promises to bring the rest of the fast-food spectrum, all those places that don't deliver, to your door.

According to their Facebook page, the service uses modern order/dispatch computer software to process your order and deliver it to you "fast, fresh and hot/cold just as if you went to the restaurant yourself."

Customers pay a flat $5 for orders placed online, or $7 for telephone orders, on top of the price of their meal. So far the new service is only available in four Ottawa postal codes, and choices are limited to Wendy's and McDonald's, but Fast Food Delivery says it plans to expand.

Metro placed a test order (see timeline at right), and although we encountered a few glitches (the website doesn't display the price of your order — although it appears to have the capacity to do so — and they couldn't be reached by phone), Fast Food Delivered brought home the burgers right on time, although more warm than hot.

For more information, go to fastfooddelivered.ecwid.com or check them out on Facebook.

Order to door

Metro decided to put Fast Food Delivery to the test. Here's a breakdown:

- 3:01 p.m. Order a Big Mac, fries and Coke, online and get email acknowledgement.
- 3:09 p.m. Another email arrives, asking to confirm the order.
- 3:16 p.m. Order confirmed, we're advised that the ETA is 3:40 p.m.
- 3:39 p.m. Lunch arrives on time, complete with straw, serviette and four packs of ketchup.
- Cost: $7.90 + $5.00 for delivery = $12.90

CHECK IDENTIFICATION

City warns about fake water testers

The City of Ottawa said Thursday it received reports of unknown salespeople approaching homeowners and claiming to be city employees needing to perform water-quality tests. The city does not currently have staff or anyone representing it going door-to-door, making such calls or checking for material buildup on water meters.

Legitimate visits by city staff are scheduled in advance except in an emergency. City employees must show city-issued photo identification, the city said in a news release.

The release said people should check identification and contact 311 before allowing access. Residents are also asked to report any suspicious phone calls or visits to police. METRO

City to help pay rent for the needy

180 struggling to pay rent and 20 homeless will receive assistance

JESSICA SMITH
@METRONEWS.CA

A city committee approved a $600,000 plan to help 200 people pay their rent Thursday.

Under the Short Term Rent Support program, the city will pay 180 people at immediate risk of losing their housing $250 a month plus $50 for each extra family member who lives with them.

The same amounts will go to 20 people who are currently homeless, except the money will be paid directly to their new landlords.

"This is going to make a definitive difference in the lives of a lot of folks who are living on the thin razor's edge of homelessness," said community and protective services committee chair Mark Taylor.

Eligibility

- City staff will choose people who are closest to the edge of homelessness.
- Recipients must be at least 16 years old and paying at least 30 per cent of their income as rent.
- The average monthly rent for a one-bedroom apartment in Ottawa is $868.

Proposed art plan pulls people to feet

JESSICA SMITH/METRO

Members of Ottawa's art scene gave a city committee a standing ovation today for approving an ambitious six-year plan for arts investment.

The plan proposes spending $4.9-million on arts, culture and heritage between 2013 and 2018. It includes initiatives such as building a downtown concert hall, a place for artists to live and work, as well as restarting the city's poet laureate program — all of which is subject to approval by city council.

The arts and heritage steering committee authored the plan. Chair Lilly Koltun quoted the famous opening lines of A Tale of Two Cities in a speech supporting the plan and the city's vibrant arts scene.

"There was once an author who wrote, 'It was the best of times, it was the worst of times.' And, through the book he produced, he made two great cities — London and Paris — brighter than ever and enriched himself as well. That is was creativity can do," she said.

"In times of plenty, creativity can enrich growth; in times of scarcity, it can inspire innovation and become the engine of recovery."

Friends and admirers of Jean Pigott shared stories about her all afternoon on Thursday at a tea in her memory, hosted by her family at City Hall.

Pigott's sister Grete Hale spoke happily about how all three sisters in the family would call each other about four times a day — and their husbands never understood how they had so much to say.

"My husband would say, 'What did you talk about?' but our lives were so full and interesting, we wanted to share with each other," Hale said. "Jean was not only my older sister, but she was my best friend."

Pigott was also a Tory MP, chairwoman of the National Capital Commission and president of the Morrison-Lamothe Bakery. She died on Jan. 10 at 87.

Tributes have come in the hundreds, from all over the world, Hale said.

"We're just so grateful to have so many friends here," she said.

Inviting them to tea in Jean Pigott Hall was the perfect way to remember her sister, who loved the ordinary things like tea and cookies, Hale said.

Freestyle champion injured during training run in Utah

Canadian freestyle skier Sarah Burke died Thursday, nine days after crashing at the bottom of the superpipe during a training run in Utah.

Burke was 29. She was injured Jan. 10 while training at a personal sponsor event at the Park City Mountain resort.

"Our hearts go out to Sarah's husband Rory and her entire family," said Peter Judge, CEO of Canadian Freestyle Ski Association (CFSA), in a statement. "It's difficult for us to imagine their pain and what they're going through. Sarah was certainly someone who lived life to the fullest and in doing so was a significant example to our community and far beyond.

"She will be greatly missed by all of us at the CFSA and the entire ski community."

"Sarah, in many ways, define(d) the sport ... (she was) involved since the very, very early days..."

PETER JUDGE, CEO, CANADIAN FREESTYLE SKI ASSOCIATION

Tests revealed Burke sustained "irreversible damage to her brain due to lack of oxygen and blood after cardiac arrest," according to a statement released by Burke's publicist.

Burke, a native of Barrie, Ont., who grew up in nearby Midland before moving to Squamish, B.C., was the best-known athlete in her sport and will be remembered for the legacy she left for women in freestyle skiing.

U.S. feds shut down

Comes one day after Wikipedia, others stage protest over legislation

One of the world's largest file-sharing sites was shut down Thursday, and its founder and several company executives were charged with violating piracy laws, federal prosecutors said.

An indictment accuses Megaupload.com of costing copyright holders more than $500 million in lost revenue from pirated films and other content.

The indictment was unsealed one day after websites including Wikipedia and Craigslist shut down in protest of two congressional proposals intended to thwart online piracy.

The Justice Department said in a statement said that Kim Dotcom and three others were arrested Thursday in New Zealand at the request of U.S. officials. Two other defendants are at large.

The website allowed users to download films, TV shows, games, music and other content for free, but made money by charging subscriptions to people who wanted access to faster download speeds or extra content.

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Star support

Megaupload was unique not only because of its massive size and the volume of downloaded content, but also because it had high-profile support from celebrities, musicians and other content producers who are most often the victims of copyright infringement and piracy.

New potential witness in Costa Concordia saga

GREGORIO BORGIA/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

▶ Firefighters use an helicopter to approach the cruise ship Costa Concordia leaning on its side.

A young Moldovan crew member who translated evacuation instructions from the bridge after the Costa Concordia ran into a reef emerged as a potential new witness Thursday in the investigation into the captain's actions that fateful night.

Italian media have said prosecutors want to interview 25-year-old Dominica Cermotan, who had worked for Costa as a hostess but was not on duty when she boarded the ship Jan. 13 in the Roman port of Civitavecchia.

The $450-million Costa Concordia was carrying more than 4,200 passengers and crew when it slammed into well-marked rocks off the Tuscan island of Giglio after the captain made an unauthorized diversion Jan. 13 from his programmed route. The ship then keeled over on its side and is still half-submerged nearly a week later.

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Going down with the ship

Seafaring tradition holds that the captain should be last to leave a sinking ship. But is it realistic to expect skippers to suppress their survival instinct amid the horror of a maritime disaster? To ask them to stare down death from the bridge, as the lights go out and the water rises?

From mariners on ships plying the world's oceans, the answer is loud and clear: Aye.

"It's a matter of honour that the master is the last to leave. Nothing less will do in this profession," said Jorgen Loren, captain of a passenger ferry operating between Sweden and Denmark and chairman of the Swedish Maritime Officer's Association.

Free web access in Uruguay

Uruguay's state-owned communications company is giving users a day of free Internet access in support of freedom online.

Antel says it is inspired by the Internet blackout led by U.S. search and social media companies against anti-piracy bills in the U.S. Congress. It's offering free net access on Monday.

The company says it has no position on the anti-piracy bills, but wants to strengthen the principle of free access.

Romney faces primary pressure ahead of vote

Mitt Romney's campaign jolted after Rick Perry drops out of Republican nominee race, backs opponent

Mitt Romney's march to the Republican presidential nomination was shaken Thursday, two days ahead of the crucial South Carolina primary, as Rick Perry dropped out and endorsed a gaining Newt Gingrich.

Romney has led the contest to select a challenger to President Barack Obama in November, benefiting from a fractured Republican field and the failure of conservatives to rally behind a candidate. The remaining candidates debated Thursday night.

Gingrich, a former speaker of the House of Representatives, is emerging as the main rival to Romney. Polls show him in second place in South Carolina, gaining ground but still trailing the former Massachusetts governor by about 10 percentage points.

CHARLES DHARAPAK/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

▶ Romney

Saturday's South Carolina primary has been seen as the pivotal contest in the race, following what had initially been declared a very narrow victory for Romney in Iowa, the first nominating contest, and a solid Romney win in last week's New Hampshire primary.

That means that even if Romney holds onto his lead and wins in South Carolina, he won't be able to claim victory in the first three contests — an achievement that would have made him appear to be the all-but-inevitable nominee.

The wealthy Romney, a venture capitalist, has campaigned on the assertion that his business background makes him the logical candidate to defeat Obama. But he faces growing scrutiny over his vast fortune and acknowledged reports that he has millions invested in the Cayman Islands.

▶ Rick Perry

Rick Perry abandoned his presidential bid on Thursday, citing money issues and in-party fighting as the reasons.

"I know when it's time to make a strategic retreat," Perry, the former Texas governor, announced Thursday after he endorsed Gingrich calling him "a conservative visionary."

Perry had faced calls to drop out to compel conservative voters, whose support has been divided among several candidates, to rally for Gingrich. Perry spokesman Ray Sullivan said money was also a factor. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

GINGRICH WANTED 'OPEN MARRIAGE': EX-WIFE

Dredging up a past that Newt Gingrich has worked hard to bury, the Republican presidential candidate's second ex-wife says Gingrich asked for an "open marriage" in which he could have both a wife and a mistress.

In an interview with ABC News' Nightline scheduled to air Thursday night, Marianne Gingrich said she refused to go along with the idea that she share her husband with Callista Bisek, who would later become his third wife.

The interview was airing just two days before the presidential primary in South Carolina, a state with a strong Christian conservative bent, and as Gingrich tries to present himself as the strongest alternative to Republican front-runner Mitt Romney.

Facebook unveils new online apps

Social media site releases 60 new applications for its users Latest include Ticketmaster and Pinterest

Facebook is adding a bevy of new applications to let users share everything from photos of what they cooked for dinner, to details on what they are wearing, to what concert they scored tickets to.

The world's largest online social network unveiled more than 60 new apps Wednesday that let users share the tiniest details of their lives on their Facebook profiles, now known as their Timeline.

Facebook users can already share the music they are listening to through apps such as Spotify, or the articles they are reading through Yahoo News and other services. Wednesday's announcement expands the number of available apps to cover a wide range of topics including food, fashion, travel and reading.

The latest apps include Ticketmaster, reviews site Rotten Tomatoes and Pinterest. The latter, which has gained in popularity in recent months, bills itself as a "virtual pinboard" that lets people collect things they find around the web.

Facebook expects online developers to create thousands of more applications in the coming weeks and months.

Study shows many teens are still not using contraception

A new U.S. government study suggests a lot of teenage girls are clueless about their chances of getting pregnant.

In a survey of thousands of teenage mothers who had unintended pregnancies, about a third said they didn't use birth control because they didn't believe they could become pregnant.

What they were thinking, exactly, isn't clear. The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention survey didn't ask teens to explain their reasoning.

"... misperception, ambivalence and magical thinking put teens at risk for unintended pregnancy."

BILL ALBERT, NATIONAL CAMPAIGN TO PREVENT TEEN AND UNPLANNED PREGNANCY

But other researchers have talked to teen moms who believed they couldn't get pregnant the first time they had sex, didn't think they could get pregnant at that time of the month or thought they were sterile.

The researchers interviewed nearly 5,000 teenage girls in 19 states who gave birth after unplanned pregnancies in 2004 through 2008.

About half of the girls in the survey said they were not using any birth control when they got pregnant. That's higher than surveys of teens in general, which have found that fewer than 20 per cent said they didn't use contraception the last time they had sex.

Jude Law

Murdoch group to pay damages

Rupert Murdoch's media empire apologized and agreed to cash payouts Thursday to 37 people — including a movie star, a soccer player, a top British politician and the son of a serial killer — who were harassed and phone-hacked by his tabloid press.

The four — Jude Law, Ashley Cole, John Prescott and Chris Shipman — were among three dozen victims who received financial damages from Murdoch's British newspaper company for illegal eavesdropping and other intrusions, including email snooping.

Lawyers for the claimants said the settlements vindicated their accusation that senior Murdoch executives had long known about phone hacking and tried to cover it up. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

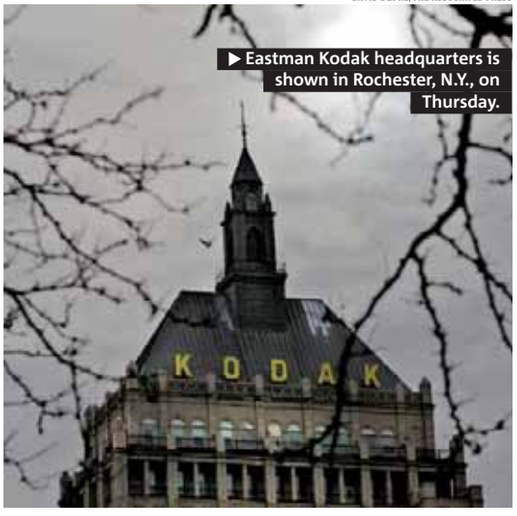
Kodak files for Chapter 11 protection

Storied photo company restructures business to cut costs and accelerate drawn-out digital transformation

DAVID DUPRE/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS



Eastman Kodak headquarters is shown in Rochester, N.Y., on Thursday.

The glory days when Eastman Kodak Co. ruled the world of film photography lasted for more than a century. Then came a stunning reversal of fortune: cutthroat competition from Japanese firms in the 1980s and a seismic shift to the digital technology it pioneered but couldn't capitalize on.

Kodak filed for Chapter 11 bankruptcy protection on Thursday, raising the spectre that the 132-year-old trailblazer could become the most storied casualty of a digital age.

Already a shadow of its former self, cash-poor Kodak will now reorganize in bankruptcy court as it seeks to boost its cash position and stay in business. The Rochester, N.Y.-based company is pinning its hopes on peddling a trove of photo patents and morphing into a new-look powerhouse built around printers and ink. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Analog to digital

- Through the 1990s, Kodak splurged $4 billion on developing the photo technology inside most cellphones and digital devices.
- The immensely lucrative analog business Kodak worried about undermining was virtually erased in a decade by the filmless photography it invented.

1 Tim Hortons goes extra large: Timmies got national attention this week when it announced a brand new extra-large cup size (24 ounces) to be introduced Monday, Jan. 23. But perhaps this tweet from radio DJ Dani Stover (@danigray) said it best: "I don't care about the size of Tim Horton's cups, all I want to know is when I can roll up the rim."

2 Seth Rogen: The Golden Globes were a snore until Canada's Seth Rogen took the stage to present an award alongside Kate Beckinsale and said, "Hello I'm Seth Rogen, and I'm currently trying to conceal a massive erection." Then everyone was aroused, er, woken up. Yes, a good penis joke never fails. Even George Clooney made one later in the broadcast.

3 Alcatraz Vancouver: Fox's fantastic, spooky, supernatural, J.J. Abrams-created prison drama Alcatraz, which premiered this week, is being produced in Vancouver, on the same North Shore Studios lot where several seasons of The X-Files were made. That makes this must-watch show all the more spooky.

4 Internet of darkness: More than 7,000 websites — including Wired, BoingBoing and Wikipedia — "went dark" Wednesday to protest anti-piracy legislation, currently making its way through the U.S. Congress, that could affect the Internet and freedom of speech. With less Internet, water-cooler talk must have gone up 25 per cent that day.

5 Tom Cruise & race cars: During a discussion on closeted gay celebrities on Piers Morgan Tonight this week, Rosie O'Donnell said, "People say to me all the time, 'Tom Cruise is gay.' I've been around Tom Cruise a lot. Tom Cruise drives race cars, Tom Cruise is ... I do not think Tom Cruise is gay. I have never thought Tom Cruise is gay." Well, OK, then.

6 Groom's Bieber dance: If you're a groom and at your wedding you and your groomsmen star in an epic choreographed performance set to Justin Bieber's Baby, it will get the attention not only of your bride but also of the world. "Brian's Surprise Justin Bieber Wedding Dance for Emily" on YouTube already has nearly four million views.

7 Giant killers: The 15-1 Green Bay Packers were being called one of the best teams ever and were expected to repeat as Super Bowl champions, but in a stunning playoff collapse on their home field they lost 37-20 to the New York Giants. The Packers finished the season 15-2 — one of the biggest choke jobs in sports history.

8 Andrea Bargnani: The seven-foot 26-year-old is finally showing why the Toronto Raptors drafted him first overall in 2006. Averaging 22 points a game (No. 9 in the NBA) and a career-best 6.5 rebounds a game, Bargnani is playing like an all-star on a mediocre Raptor team. He may yet be the second coming of Dirk Nowitzki.

Bath time, Russian-style

Taking religion to an extreme

MOSCOW, RUSSIA. Braving the legendary Russian winter, thousands of Orthodox Christians across the country have celebrated the feast of the Epiphany the traditional way ... by bathing in cold ice pools outside to "cleanse themselves of sins." For the faithful, this ritual pays homage to the baptism of Jesus Christ. MWN

Baptism of ice

- The Crucifix-shaped hole in ice is named "Iordan" after the Jordan River, where Jesus Christ was baptized.
- Three times a blessing: After descending wooden steps, believers submerge their bodies completely in water three times (in the name of the Father, the Son and the Holy Spirit).

A dip in the ice gives life to you

BENEFITS. And what are the benefits of a winter swim, if any? Experts say it can stimulate mental processes and produce hormones to make the body cope with physical ailments. It can also release stress, remove aches and pains, increase vitality and keep skin looking younger. It can also treat asthma or arthritis. MWN

"When a person is in cold water all his or her blood is redistributed around the body, and this is actually good for the health."

▶ The anti-racist message of Red Tails is lost in the cardboard characters and wooden acting.

Synopsis

- Based on true events (though highly fictionalized), the movie focuses on four African American pilots from the Second World War — the top guns of the 332nd Fighter Group — the Tuskegee Airmen. In fighting the racial discrimination of the U.S. military, they prove their mettle by taking on dangerous assignments in active combat.

Tails is too 'talky'

The flight scenes are fun, but Red Tails is slowed down by leaden dialogue

Reel Guys

RICHARD CROUSE & MARK BRESLIN

Richard: Mark, you can't accuse Red Tails of being subtle. It is unabashedly patriotic, unapologetically melodramatic and an unashamed throwback to the propaganda movies of the 1940s. The mix and match of those elements works for the first hour, but the time one of the pilots whoops, "Let's give those newspapers something to write about!" the once charming tone of the movie started to wear thin for me. You?

Mark: Charmed? Naw, I was too busy being stupefied at the racial condescension of the movie. The movie has the best of intentions, but its anti-racist message is lost amidst the cardboard characters, leaden dialogue, wooden acting and overemphatic score. The story is so dumbed down it's a bit of an insult to those Tuskegee airmen it wants to honour. Neat flight jackets, though.

Richard: I didn't find the script condescending, just ordinary. An extraordinary, and mostly hidden history like the story of the Tuskegee Red Tails deserves something a little more than a by-the-book retelling. I agree with you about the flight jackets; they are sharp, but I also found the in-flight scenes to be exciting. Too much dialogue for my taste, but the aerial photography was fun.

MB: The aerial photography may be the only reason to watch this picture. Yet, in many of the long shots, it looked like a video game to me. And was there ever a more nauseating, saccharine romantic subplot as the one in this movie? I was so grateful that most of the dialogue was in Italian! Some of the acting was passable: Terrence Howard had a couple of good speeches, but most of the time he acted with his pipe.

RC: Ha! I think I enjoyed this more than you. But just by a hair. It's too long, too talky and too corny, but I liked some of the characters and enjoyed watching the flight sequences. I do, however, wish there was less dialogue during the dogfights. I think fighter pilots in attack mode have better things to concentrate on than making wisecracks.

MB: Yes, the confidence of the pilots under fire bordered on the comical. But one thing I found interesting: The racism of the pilots' fellow white Americans was worse than of the Nazis, who only dismissed them with snotty attitude rather than overtly trying to beat them up and using the dreaded N-word. I don't know if it was intentional, but the point packed a wallop for me.

The real wolfman

Liam's tough side is back with another 'Neesploitation' flick, The Grey, which has him fighting dogs in the wild Film opens next week

TODD GILCHRIST

METRO WORLD NEWS IN HOLLYWOOD

KIMBERLEY FRENCH

▶ Liam Neeson says the script for The Grey "read like a 19th century epic poem for me."

Evidenced by his recent spate of ass-kicking roles, Liam Neeson seems like the scariest actor in Hollywood.

Tall, broad and blunt, he cuts an intimidating profile, and watching him face down a pack of ravenous wolves in his new film — the mythic, man-versus-nature thriller The Grey — he seems like an equally ferocious creature, especially after he duct-tapes broken airplane liquor bottles to his knuckles.

To hear Neeson tell it, however, he wouldn't last five minutes in the sub-zero conditions his character endures.

"I'd curl up and die," the Irish actor says. "On our first day, cameras were malfunctioning and equipment wasn't working, and I thought, 'This is ludicrous.'"

In the last three years, Neeson has remodelled his imposing dramatic pedigree to suit action fans, spawning the unofficial "Neesploitation" sub-genre — with films like Taken, Unknown and now The Grey — where he squares off physically against a rogue's gallery of international baddies and proves unequivocally he's not to be trifled with.

While his command of the screen is undeniable, he insists he's not the alpha-male type he's become synonymous with in his films.

"I can play them, but in life, I'm not one," he says. "It's great fun, because I know that I'm the opposite."

The Grey reunites Neeson with his The A-Team director, Joe Carnahan, whose survivalist thriller about a small group of plane crash survivors lost in the frozen north appealed to Neeson on both visceral and existential levels.

"The script read like a 19th century epic poem for me, something like The Ancient Mariner or something," Neeson says.

"And also the little boy in myself. I just thought it would be great to be out with a bunch of guys on a cliff face or a rock face and doing manly things."

Although Neeson's recent foray into action has led him from the more cerebral films that helped make his name — like Schindler's List and Kinsey — he says he's doing movies like The Grey because he's asked to, not because he feels compelled to test himself physically or even professionally.

▶ Sam Worthington and Elizabeth Banks in a scene from Man on a Ledge.

Immersed in the pigeon's playground

SASHA PERL-RAVER
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA
METRO WORLD NEWS IN HOLLYWOOD

When making a movie while precariously perched on the side of a Manhattan building, even the most powerful Hollywood producer or über-skilled stunt teams can't keep you safe from your true nemesis: Pigeons.

"You're in their world," Man on a Ledge star Sam Worthington says. "And the more you squawk at them, the more they laugh at you."

Co-star Elizabeth Banks agrees.

"I was always worried they were going to fly into my head," she says. "I didn't really care about the whole pooping-on-me thing, that can happen. But they'd just kind of dart around every once in awhile and I was like, 'No, no, no! Don't come near me!'"

The film, about a cop-turned-convict-turned-fugitive (Worthington) who has to be talked off the ledge of a high-rise building by a New York Police Department hostage negotiator (Banks), was shot "practically," which means that when it looks like the actors are standing on the side of a building, they're actually on the side of a building — not on a set or in front of a green screen somewhere.

The filmmakers constructed a massive shooting apparatus that allowed them to make their movie in the pigeon's playground.

"Everyone was really committed to giving the audience the experience of being up that high with us and giving you vertigo," Banks says.

"You get to experience what it felt like up there," Worthington adds.

That feeling being?

"Fear," Worthington grins. "Not of falling, but of landing, because you'd go splat. You do hang on for grim life. I always had a palm on the wall somewhere."

Haywire
Genre: Action
Director: Steven Soderbergh
Stars: Gina Carano, Ewan McGregor

Filmmaker Steven Soderbergh reunites with The Limey writer Lem Dobbs to create Haywire — what will surely go down as one of 2012's best action films (and yes, I know it's only January). The Ocean's Eleven director brilliantly cast MMA fighter Gina Carano as a mysterious covert operative that seeks vengeance and truth after she is double-crossed on a job. While the story is simple enough, it's clearly Carano is performing her own incredible fight scenes, which keeps the kettle boiling in this stylish, entertaining thriller. STEVE GOW

Extremely Loud and Incredibly Close
Genre: Drama
Director: Stephen Daldry
Stars: Thomas Horn, Tom Hanks, Sandra Bullock

Extremely Loud and Incredibly Close explores the horror of 9-11 through the eyes of a gifted 10-year-old named Oskar (Thomas Horn) whose father (Tom Hanks) was killed in the attack. This is a 9-11 movie that isn't about ideology but the human cost of ideology. Oskar's search isn't for answers as to why 9-11 happened, but rather to keep a connection to his father alive. Good performances all round, Sandra Bullock and Max Von Sydow are standouts, but Horn does much of the work, his doe eyes conveying the pain, hurt and confusion that comes along with great loss. It's a bit over long, with a drawn out ending, but a few moments guaranteed to trigger the water works.
RICHARD CROUSE

Tinker Tailor Soldier Spy
Genre: Thriller
Director: Tomas Alfredson
Stars: Gary Oldman, Colin Firth, Tom Hardy

Given its dense and fascinating source material, it's not surprising that this British thriller puts the audience to work — which is a refreshing change of pace for a genre that is home to so much surface-level material. Based on a classic 1974 book of the same name by John LeCarre, Tinker observes the highest levels of British Intelligence at MI6. When it becomes clear that someone in the trusted inner circle has been a mole for the Russians, one forcibly retired agent (Gary Oldman) is asked to investigate the men he'd worked closest with. This film truly does not fit the definition of what some would deem to be a "spy film" — there are little to no car chases or explosions of any kind. The story comes out through the dialogue, not some easy voice-over that spoon-feeds salient points. If you find yourself playing catch-up, it may only add to the menacing mood of the Cold War Era. But like anything in life that doesn't come easy, the end rewards are many. Don't send your gramps with the hearing aid to see it, but if you're in the mood for a richly told portrayal with international intrigue, you're in for a treat.

Hot new winter TV shows

The wind is howling, the snow is falling and even your dog doesn't want to go outside We could tell you to curl up with a good book, but we're sure most of you would rather put on your Snuggie and watch these guilty pleasures

HANDOUT

House of Lies

Oscar-winner Don Cheadle gets what he wants — by any means necessary — as cutthroat management consultant Marty Kaan, who charges America's one per cent for his high-priced advice (and the occasional night of strip club debauchery). It's fascinating to watch the serious, intense Cheadle morph into such a charismatic con man.
Airs Mondays on The Movie Network and Movie Central

HANDOUT

Alcatraz

Alcatraz, the island prison off of San Francisco, already holds plenty of intrigue — and even more so in this drama when former inmates who were presumed dead become linked to modern crimes. Add the storytelling prowess of J.J. Abrams and familiar Lostie Jorge Garcia, and we're already formulating conspiracy theories.
Airs Mondays on Citytv

HBO CANADA

Luck

Deadwood creator David Milch is back on HBO. This time, he's got Dustin Hoffman and director Michael Mann with him for a series on one of his passions: horse racing. Milch creates beautiful TV (you just need a little patience when watching his densely layered epics). Add the allure of thoroughbreds, gambling and Hoffman, and Luck is a sure bet. Premieres Jan. 29 on HBO Canada

Smash

American Idol runner-up Katharine McPhee stars as a wannabe Broadway star who auditions for a musical about the life of Marilyn Monroe. Debra Messing and Anjelica Huston also star. Basically, every network's been trying to figure out how to mimic the success of Glee with their own musical series; NBC nails it with this behind-the-Broadway-scenes drama from Steven Spielberg. It's going to be, well, a Smash.
Premieres Feb. 6 on CTV

HANDOUT

The River

Paranormal Activity creator Oren Peli brings his mastery of "found footage" scares to the small screen. The host of a nature series goes missing in the Amazon, so — cameras in tow — his wife and son go searching for him. If you're not already creeped out by what's lurking in those waters, the supernatural elements to this will provide plenty to shriek about. Premieres Feb. 7 on CTV

Talking points

Idol judges work the stage

LET'S HOPE THEY'RE NOT 'PITCHY'. American Idol fans may want to check out The Tonight Show With Jay Leno for a rare chance to judge the judges. Host Ryan Seacrest and judges Steven Tyler and Randy Jackson are among the guests on Friday. But that's not all. Tyler and Jackson are expected to perform, along with Aerosmith guitarist Joe Perry. (NBC, CTV2)

Canadian comfort food

AND IT'S NOT POUTINE. You Gotta Eat Here proves that Canadian comfort food can be just as indulgent as the lardaceous spectacles seen in those over-the-top Food Network shows set south of the border. Take for example Friday's overblown brunch suggestion: eggs benny served on fresh doughnuts, courtesy of Uncle Betty's Diner in Toronto. The creamy New York-style cheesecake over at Victoria's Italian resto Pagliacci's is also featured and seems down right healthy by comparison. (Food Network Canada)

What if you were switched at birth?

AS IF BEING A TEEN GIRL WASN'T HARD ENOUGH. Get a glimpse at ABC Spark's series Switched at Birth on W Network Saturday. The new channel isn't in Canada until March 26 but it's offering up an early look at its flagship teen drama. The tale centres on two girls who learn they were accidentally switched as newborns in the hospital. One grew up in a wealthy family while the other grew up with a single mom in a working-class neighbourhood. (W Network)

Preggo, clueless and hilarious

AWAY WE GO. Airing Saturday, the 2009 romantic comedy Away We Go follows an expectant couple played by Maya Rudolph (SNL) and John Krasinski (The Office) as they set off on a journey to find the best city in which to settle and raise their family. (Bravo) THE CANADIAN PRESS

The importance of Portlandia

Funnyman Fred Armisen talks about his on-screen chemistry with Carrie Brownstein Almost half the show is improv, says the SNL star

In one sketch during the new season of Portlandia, the characters played by Fred Armisen and Carrie Brownstein decide to watch a single episode of Battlestar Galactica before they head out to a friend's birthday party.

Unable to pull themselves away from the TV after 45 minutes, they miss the party, end up devouring the first season, and over a few consecutive days, the whole series. Jobs are lost, bills go unpaid and they stop getting up to use the bathroom.

At one point Brownstein tiredly says, "I a little bit feel like I have a bladder infection, but I'm just going to get antibiotics after the next episode."

This scene is typical of the comedic duo's adoration of the absurd, and is one that could easily apply to viewers of their show.

The first season recently began streaming on Netflix, and the second season premieres Friday.

Armisen says he has found himself in similarly intense viewing marathons with shows like Game of Thrones and American Horror Story. "And The Wire," he says, "I burned right through that."

What makes the comedy hit so hard is Armisen and Brownstein's ability to create relatable situations that go awry. He says the pair are able to get so ridiculous because almost half of the show is improvised.

"We film so much stuff," he says. "We could do a whole season of what we didn't use."

Armisen says that a large chunk of that unused footage is he and Brownstein ruining the scenes by laughing uncontrollably at what the other one has come up with on the spot. He is quick to give away the credit for the finished product.

"We're not part of the editing process," he explains, "because those guys are geniuses."

A different beat

One of the things that sets Portlandia apart from Armisen's other comedy outlet, Saturday Night Live, is the way the show handles musical guests. On Portlandia, musical guests don't sing, they act.

- "Sometimes when musicians do things like this, they come at it with just a slightly different way of playing things than a comedian, and that's just interesting," says Armisen.
- Season 2 cameos include Eddie Vedder, Joanna Newsom and guitarists from the Sex Pistols and The Smiths.

Armisen says relinquishing that authority is liberating because every time he watches the edits, he finds himself saying, "Oh my gosh, I never thought that we wouldn't need that."

"That's a really weird part of the process, where you think you're in control, but you know it's good that you're not in control."

Walking on an uncharted path

Kathleen Edwards prepares for boost to music career Romantically linked to producer who made her album

It's difficult to listen to Kathleen Edwards' transformative fourth album and miss the distinctive influence of Bon Iver's Justin Vernon.

Vernon co-produced the record from his home studio in Wisconsin, contributing backing vocals, guitar, synth, bass, vibraphone, drums, banjo and organ. But more than that, Vernon — who is also romantically linked with Edwards — helped the five-time Juno nominee chart a new musical path, marrying her sturdy song craft to lushly expansive sonic landscapes that carry more than a hint of his own outfit's rustic folk.

New sound aside, Vernon's name alone should help Edwards' buzz reverberate into new corners. And while Edwards might rather make noise by virtue of her own pristine voice, she welcomes new listeners any way she can get them.

"I would be lying to myself if I didn't realize that obviously Justin's involvement in this record is going to have people listen to the record who would otherwise be like: 'Oh, I think she's an alt-country singer/songwriter person,"' she said. "So I do really appreciate that."

"I don't want to make a rootsy singer-songwriter record. It's just not interesting to me."
KATHLEEN EDWARDS

Not that Edwards didn't fret about the optics of the situation, and whether it would look as though she was trying to capitalize on her romantic relationship with the critically adored singer/songwriter, who was recently feted with four prominent Grammy nominations.

But it was a conversation with a friend that helped Edwards realize that she didn't need to avoid the association.

"My friend Julie said to me last night ... 'This is your story, and you don't have to apologize for the fact that you met someone and you're in love, and you made a record with someone who just happens to be the person who's also on your speed dial,'" Edwards said.

"I was like, you're right. I don't have to be embarrassed or worried about what people think my motives are, because I know what my motives are: they were about making a really good record, and he was the person that I made it with."

But Edwards had another motive beyond simply making a good record. She wanted to make a different record.

"I don't want to make a rootsy singer-songwriter record. It's just not interesting to me. And I feel like I have all these influences and I have all these ambitions musically, creatively, that I need to really commit to seeing through this time.'"

The winter release season is finally upon us.

Here's what we can expect in stores and online in the first quarter of 2012:

Tuesday: I have high hopes for Future This from The Big Pink, a British band with much potential.

Jan. 24: Craig Finn of the Hold Steady's solo album, Clear Heart Full Eyes, comes out. Also we'll get Cloud Nothings' Attack on Memory, which was produced by Steve Albini.

Jan. 31: Lana Del Ray was the musical guest on SNL without even having an album out. Will Born to Die live up to the hype? And I've heard Old Ideas, the first Leonard Cohen studio album since 2004. Fans will be pleased.

Feb. 7: Van Halen (DLR v2.0) returns with A Different Kind of Truth. We'll also get more metal from Silverstein in the form of Short Songs. Plus Le Voyage Dans La Lune from Air. And Hotel Sessions from Evan Dando and the Lemonheads.

Feb. 14: Sleigh Bells. Can't wait for Reign of Terror.

Feb. 21: I like what I've heard so far from Band of Skulls' Sweet Sour.

Feb. 28: The Cranberries are back. Those who have heard Roses – their first album since Wake Up and Smell the Coffee in 2001 – say it's very good.

Mar. 6: Kaiser Chiefs and Start the Revolution Without Me. It'll certainly be a hit in the U.K., but will it be enough for a North American breakthrough?

Mar. 19: Spiritualized return with Sweet Heart Sweet Light.

Mar. 20: Sharks. Watch this Birmigham-based band. No Gods could be a sleeper.

Mar. 27: The Modfather Paul Weller cranks out another CD. This one is called Sonik Kicks.

Apr. 10: Slash's new solo album. Still awaiting a title.

Apr. 24: My Darkest Days. No title yet.

4 must-listens for 2012

Metro selects little-known artists that deserve more attention this year ◆ Read up and expand your library

If you are looking for some new music finds for 2012, here are four must-listens for the new year.

1 Lana Del Rey
Del Rey released a video this summer that was so hot that every blogger in the world watched it back-to-back enough that they were all fighting to be the first to declare her passé by the next day.

But for those of us who are just interested in good music, and care more about hearing it than hearing it first, Del Rey's sultry take on gangsta will be a breath of fresh air when her debut drops at the end of this month.

2 King Krule
If you didn't know that Archy Marshall was a fresh-faced 17-year-old, and you heard his patient beats, sophisticated guitar chords, moody words and his low London voice, you might think he was in his 30s and possibly was the type of character who accompanied Pete Doherty through every stint in rehab.

But luckily for us, Marshall has many years ahead of him.

3 Azealia Banks
Imagine if Rihanna really was into sex as much as she sings about. And if Nicki Minaj was into Interpol! Then you might have an idea of the hot, hilarious awesomeness that is the 20-year-old Harlem native Azealia Banks.

4 Michael Kiwanuka
His song, Tell Me a Tale, sounds at first like a forgotten song from the '70s, but once he gets to the chorus you'll know that not only is this a song of the new decade, but one that will not be forgotten.

The fact that he has released three EPs in the past 12 months should also be a testament to that. METRO

So this is what J.Lo sees in Mr. Smart

THE WORD

DOROTHY ROBINSON
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA

Just why did mega-star Jennifer Lopez fall for Casper Smart?

If you're thinking it's because he's a hot piece of young man meat with terrific abs who is completely subservient to her every want and desire, you'd be wrong!

It's his seriously deep tweets, yo. How moving are they? Let's just say: Can someone get the president from the Precious Moments Page-a-Day Calendar company on the phone?

Smart needs to stop dancing and start writing to inspire all of us.

Some of my favourites:

"Age, status, n opinions of others are irrelevant."

"Our hearts are endless and our souls infinite. Ages are mere reminders of the hours logged on this earth and the precious time remaining."

"We should all honor our time here by indulging our passion and dreams. So, close your ears and open your hearts; Love and be happy!"

Smart is so good. How does he know that my "passion and dreams" consist of mocking in a free daily newspaper the throwaway tweets of a 24-year-old back-up dancer I've never met?

Forget the calendar — who wants to make me a motivational poster?

Pippa ain't having it with the paps

Pippa Middleton is reportedly sick and tired of the paparazzi attention that's become a regular part of her life since her sister, Kate, married Prince William, so her lawyers are taking action, according to Hollyscoop.

Citing the "serious distress and anxiety" the photographers' presence causes, Middleton's lawyers have sent cease-and-desist letters to the "nine or 10 agencies outside her door every day," threatening legal action if they don't ease off.

As for publications, so far the Daily Mail is the only one to vow to stop using paparazzi images of Middleton.

Jennifer Aniston preggers?

Jennifer Aniston is reportedly six months pregnant with boyfriend Justin Theroux's child, according to MTV UK — though the pregnancy is news even to friends.

"She wouldn't have wanted to make a big deal but she must be so excited," a pal says.

"If anyone ever asked if she was worried about running out of time, she'd reply, 'I'm absolutely having kids there's not one doubt in my mind.'" Aniston has been spotted out at a pair of events recently either bundled up around the middle or showing off a suspiciously swelled belly.

Speculation that the couple might be expecting began in October when they were spotted leaving a clinic together. METRO

CHINESE NEW YEAR

LISA MAREE WILLIAMS/GETTY IMAGES

▶ Chinese New Year begins Monday and ends Feb. 9. The celebration has become part of what it means to be Canadian with special traditions each day.

Celebration of renewal

Chinese New Year traditions revolve around starting with clean slate, welcoming prosperity

STEPHANIE ORFORD
FOR METRO

After 4,710 years, Chinese New Year has snowballed into one doozy of a party. The celebration has also become part of what it means to be Canadian, and communities across the country will honour and enjoy its rich traditions Monday (Jan. 23).

Chinese New Year is first and foremost a celebration of renewal, explained Kathy Gibler, executive director of the Dr. Sun Yat-Sen Classical Chinese Garden in Vancouver.

In that spirit, its traditions revolve around repaying debts and repelling bad spirits to start off the new year with a clean slate, and welcome prosperity.

Each day has special traditions, such as sending off the kitchen god, decorating the house with flowers and fruits, or remembering departed relatives, explained Gibler.

Because China covers such a large area, traditional food varies widely, but in most households you can't go wrong with fish, which symbolizes abundance, Gibler said. Potstickers and the myriad traditional pastries are also popular choices.

Many people decorate their homes and businesses with red good luck couplets — paper characters with meanings like good luck, long life and prosperity.

"It's a really social time of year," explained Gibler, who lived in China for six years. Many people make house visits to wish friends and family a happy new year, and red envelopes containing money are a common gift, especially for children.

When the clock strikes midnight on Chinese New Year's Eve, the family runs outside to set off firecrackers and chase away bad luck that might be lingering from the year before.

"Chinese New Year is like Christmas for Canadians, eh?" explained Jun Ing, the parade marshal for Vancouver's Chinese New Year parade.

In honour of the year of the water dragon, his parade will have three long dragons, each held up by many dancers.

The symbol of water in this year's water dragon zodiac tempers the powerful, fiery nature of the dragon to make the water dragon less hotheaded and more peaceful, while still remaining strong, explained Gibler.

The lion dance will also make an appearance with its upbeat gong and drum accompaniment, said Ing. He is overseeing more than 14 lion dance teams in the parade this year.

Since its inception 39 years ago, the Vancouver Chinese New Year parade has grown incredibly and taken on a multicultural flavour. Now, many different groups participate, including Special Olympians and Korean martial artists and dancers, Ing explained.

"It's the Canadian way of doing it."

With a few simple ingredients and an Asian-inspired sauce, you can whip up a meal that will capture the spirit of Chinese New Year and bring a little adventure to the dinner table.

Prep Time: 15 minutes
Cook time: 20 minutes
Total time: 35 minutes

Ingredients:

- 4 chicken breasts, skinless and boneless
- ½ cup (125 ml) plain goat cheese (cream cheese can also be used)
- 2 cups (500 ml) frozen broccoli florets
- 2 tbsp (30 ml) vegetable oil
- 1 bottle VH Sweet & Sour Sauce

Preparation:

1 Place 1 chicken breast between 2 large pieces of plastic wrap, carefully pound chicken breast with the flat side of a meat tenderizer or rolling pin. Flatten breast to a thickness of ½ cm (¼ inch), taking care not to tear the chicken. Repeat with remaining chicken breasts.

2 Place broccoli in a small glass and add just enough water to cover the florets, microwave for 4 minutes. Drain and chop finely. Stir warm broccoli into goat cheese until well combined.

3 Place ¼ of the cheese mixture at the base of the first piece of chicken, carefully roll the meat over the cheese, tucking in the sides to enclose the cheese. Use 2 to 3 toothpicks to secure. Repeat with remaining 3 breasts.

4 In a large sauté pan heat oil over medium-high, brown chicken on all sides, about 7 minutes. Add sweet & sour sauce to the pan along with ¼ cup (60 ml) water. Cover and simmer until chicken is cooked through, about 12 minutes.

5 Slice chicken and serve with sauce poured over top. Serves 4.

Bacon Wrapped Pork with Bok Choy

NEWS CANADA

You don't have to travel all the way to the Great Wall to take part in Chinese New Year festivities. With a few pantry staples, you can bring the aromas and cuisine of the Far East directly to your home.

Prep time: 5 minutes
Cook time: 35 minutes
Total time: 40 minutes

Ingredients:

- 1 lb (500 g) pork tenderloin
- 1 tbsp (15 ml) vegetable oil
- 8-10 slices bacon
- 8 cups (2 l) baby bok choy, sliced in half lengthwise and washed
- 1 bottle VH Sweet & Sour Sauce

Preparation:

1 Heat oven to 400 F (200 C); slice tenderloin into 2 pieces. Heat oil in a large sauté pan over medium-high heat and brown the pork, about 7 minutes.

2 Layer 4-5 bacon slices side by side on a cutting board; allow edges to only slightly overlap. Place one piece of pork across the bottom ends of the bacon strips; roll the bacon around the tenderloin and place the wrapped pork seam side down in a baking dish. Repeat with second piece and remaining bacon.

3 Place baking dish in oven and cook until bacon is browned and pork is cooked through, about 30 minutes. Pork should be cooked to an internal temperature of 160 F (70 C).

4 Pour out leftover oil from sauté pan, add baby bok choy and 2 tbsp (30 ml) water, cover and cook on medium heat for 8 minutes. Add bottle of sweet & sour sauce and heat through, lowering heat to simmer to keep warm.

5 When pork is ready, slice and serve with bok choy and VH Sweet & Sour Sauce. Serves 4.

Eggs benedict ditches English muffin in favour of portobello mushroom

Preparation:

1. Rub portobello caps with oil and sprinkle with salt. Spread on baking sheet, cap side up, and roast in 400 F (200 C) oven 15 mins. or until tender.
2. Hollandaise Sauce: Melt butter in small saucepan over low heat. Place egg yolks, lemon juice and salt in blender, and blend for few seconds on High. Remove blender lid, and slowly pour in one third of melted butter. Replace lid and blend for a few seconds on high. Remove lid and pour in another third of melted butter; blend. Repeat with final third of melted butter. Return to saucepan and keep warm. If sauce is too thick, add some hot water, a tablespoon (15 mL) at a time, while whisking constantly until desired consistency is reached. Taste and adjust lemon juice and salt.
3. Fill saucepan (9-inch/23 cm minimum) with 2 to 3 inches (5 to 7.5 cm) of water. Add vinegar. Bring to simmer over medium heat; reduce heat to low. Crack eggs one at a time into small dish, and gently slip them into barely simmering water. Cover pan and cook 4 minutes, until whites are cooked but yolks are still runny (you can test this by gently touching them—they should jiggle). Remove eggs with a slotted spoon, and drain on paper towels.
4. To assemble, place one mushroom cap on each of 4 plates. Top with a poached egg, and a spoonful of hollandaise sauce. Garnish with chives, if desired. Serve immediately. NEWS CANADA/ JENNIFER HILL OF FOODESS.COM/ ADAPTED BY EMILY RICHARDS (PROFESSIONAL HOME ECONOMIST, COOKBOOK AUTHOR AND A TV CELEBRITY CHEF. The anatomy of scotch

PETER ROCKWELL
LIQUIDASSETS@EASTLINK.CA
TWITTER: @THEREALWINEGUY

Though he admits to never having tasted gasoline, I have a friend who imagines the closest thing to it he's had in his mouth is scotch.

I've tried to turn him around by explaining that to understand it, you need to know that there are three key Scottish varieties.

Blended scotch is a mix of malt and other grain whiskies, vatted versions are a union of just malt whiskies and single malts are the malty output of one distillery.

While most Scots say the real art is in the blending, it's been single malts (with unique characteristics influenced by their surroundings, water source and distiller's philosophy) that have made Scottish booze famous in North America.

With Robert Burns Day on the horizon, there's no better time for my buddy to hold on to his haggis and dive into a palate pounder like Laphroaig 10 Year Old ($70.12 - $84.99) from the island of Islay. It oozes iodine, peat, an attractively abrasive flavour that shouts 'Scotland' and the individuality that makes its malts so pleasantly polarizing. PRICES REFLECT THE RANGE ACROSS CANADA. All-star choices 'difficult': Blake

Rob Blake knows an all-star when he sees one. And he's come to grips with the fact he couldn't invite them all to Ottawa's Scotiabank Place later this month for the NHL's all-star weekend.

"There are some real good players, like every year, that aren't going," he said in an interview.

Blake made seven all-star appearances during a Hall of Fame career that ended in 2010. Now manager of the NHL's hockey operations department, he's overseeing the event.

Part of his role his is deciding on the list of all-star invitees along with other members of the hockey operations staff.

"The selection process is difficult," said Blake. "You figure in past Stanley Cup champions, you figure in obviously scoring leaders from years ago and some of the older players ... there's a lot that goes into it."

All-star weekend runs from Jan. 26 to Jan. 29.

Fans voted the first six all-stars with hockey operations staff adding the remaining 36 last week.

Among those that were overlooked were Patrice Bergeron (Boston), James Neal (Pittsburgh), Scott Hartnell (Philadelphia), Kris Versteeg (Florida) and Radim Vrbata (Phoenix).

Each of them still has a chance to find his way to Ottawa as an injury replacement.

Roddick fails to finish

U.S. star injured during Aussie Open match against Hewitt ◗ 'It's a miserable, terrible thing being out there compromised like that,' says former No. 1

Andy Roddick's bid to win another Grand Slam singles title nearly a decade after his first hit a roadblock Thursday when a hamstring injury forced him out of the Australian Open.

The former No. 1, whose lone major singles win came at the 2003 U.S. Open, was trailing Lleyton Hewitt 3-6, 6-3, 6-4 when he called the trainer to his courtside chair. He then walked over to Hewitt and shook the Australian player's hand.

Roddick had fallen to the court in the second set, but played despite being in obvious pain from the injury.

"I wanted to see what I could do. You don't really have much time for clarity in that situation," Roddick said of his attempt to play with the injury.

Trailing 2-0 in the second set, Roddick moved suddenly to his right to retrieve a Hewitt forehand, and seemed to overstretch his right leg, rolling over on his right ankle. Hewitt won that point and the next two for a 3-0 lead, then Roddick took a medical timeout.

Hewitt said the injury was "a nightmare for both of us."

"Obviously, he stretched something," Hewitt said. "It's not easy for the person up the other end of the court. It's hard to concentrate when they're having injury timeouts.

"It's never easy to play injured or to pull out of a match. It's not a good feeling."

Roddick looked lethargic in the second and third sets, rarely chasing shots and hanging his head between points. He threw his racket at one point and argued with the chair umpire after a video replay showed that one of Hewitt's shots — originally called out — actually hit the line.

Top-seeded Novak Djokovic advanced earlier Thursday, overcoming an early service break against Santiago Giraldo in a 6-3, 6-2, 6-1 victory at Melbourne Park.

"I maybe started a little too defensive because he was hitting the ball very strong," said Djokovic, who won three of the four majors last year. "But then after, it was the other way around." THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

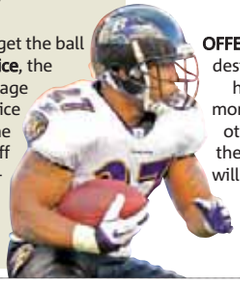
Breaking down the final four

On Sunday, the Super Bowl matchup will be set as the Ravens play the Patriots and the Giants face the 49ers

Ravens

OFFENCE: The Ravens must get the ball in the hands of RB Ray Rice, the league's leader in total yardage with 2,068 (1,364 rushing). Rice was dynamic the last time he faced the Patriots in a playoff game at Foxborough, breaking an 83-yard run on the first Baltimore play from scrimmage.



DEFENCE: Led by All-Pro NT Haloti Ngata and LB Terrell Suggs — plus the ageless LB Ray Lewis and S Ed Reed — and using a never-back-down philosophy, the Ravens will get after Tom Brady as best they can. But they managed zero sacks and not a ton of pressure against Houston, whose offence is not on the same level as New England's.

Patriots

OFFENCE: Given time, QB Tom Brady will destroy even the best defences. But he hasn't faced a high-quality one in months, and the best defence the Patriots played in 2011, Pittsburgh's, held them to a season-low 17 points. Brady will run the no-huddle as often as possible, hoping to force the Ravens defenders to stay on the field more often than usual.

DEFENCE: Expect Patriots coach Bill Belichick to have something schemed up to neutralize Ray Rice, forcing QB Joe Flacco to beat his team. Flacco isn't spectacular and the Ravens rarely have asked him to be the focal point of the offence. Belichick could force that to happen, especially if superb NT Vince Wilfork has his way in the trenches.

Giants

OFFENCE: The Giants were extremely efficient down the stretch to win the NFC East. They've continued that in the playoffs, mixing in big plays with ball security, getting huge contributions from WRs Hakeem Nicks, Victor Cruz and Mario Manningham, and just enough rushing from Ahmad Bradshaw and Brandon Jacobs.

DEFENCE: The Giants have a potentially overpowering pass rush led by All-Pro DE Jason Pierre-Paul, DEs Justin Tuck and Osi Umenyiora, and revitalized LB Michael Boley. They stumbled often in pass coverage for much of the season, but came on in recent weeks against the likes of Tony Romo, Matt Ryan and Aaron Rodgers.

49ers

OFFENCE: If the Niners establish the run with Frank Gore, who rushed for 1,211 yards and eight TDs, and can spring backup Kendall Hunter a few times, it will make QB Alex Smith more effective. In by far the best season of his seven-year career, Smith has avoided turnovers, made more precise throws than ever and been patient.

DEFENCE: The Niners, who allowed an NFC-low 229 points, have strong coverage backs in CB Carlos Rodgers and S Dashon Goldson, each of whom had six interceptions. San Francisco also might be the best tackling team in the NFL, and S Donte Whitner's hit on Pierre Thomas last week displayed that.

Indians pitcher faces identity crisis after arrest

From year to year and game to game, the Cleveland Indians never knew what to expect from Fausto Carmona.

On Thursday, he stunned them again.

Carmona, the Indians' opening-day starter last season, was arrested in the Dominican Republic for allegedly using a false identity. Officials in his native country are contesting his real name and birthdate.

Police spokesman Maximo Baez Aybar said Carmona was arrested in Santo Domingo outside the U.S. consulate, where he had gone to renew his visa. Carmona had played winter ball in the Dominican as he prepared to report to the Indians' training camp in Goodyear, Ariz., next month.

At this point, his future with the club is uncertain.

Aybar said Carmona's real name is apparently Roberto Hernandez Heredia and he's 31, three years older than the pitcher claimed. The Indians list Carmona's birthday as Dec. 7, 1983, in their 2011 media guide.

"We were recently made aware of the situation that occurred today in the Dominican Republic and are currently in the process of gathering information," Indians general manager Chris Antonetti said. "We are not prepared to make any additional comment at this time."

Carmona's agent said he was caught off-guard by the arrest and that there are Dominican lawyers working on the player's behalf. He did not disclose the names of the lawyers.

"This took us by complete surprise," agent Jay Alou said. "What we have to do now is wait to find out the process that has to be done with the consulate with this new identity in order to see if he can get a new work visa."
